Seligenthal Grammar School Opens a Bridge Class

From September 2015 a “bridge class”, which is an “International Class of Initiation”, will offer the possibility of integrating into the Bavarian school system to young people aged between ten and seventeen who do not speak German or whose command of German needs to be enhanced.

Target Group

Pupils, male and female, from secondary schools in Europe or other countries.

What we offer

In an international course “German for beginners” of twenty participants maximum, young people will be given an intensive German course of fifteen to twenty hours per week by teachers who have specialized in teaching German as a foreign language. This course is complemented by “intercultural training sessions”, a course of up to one year depending on pupils’ previous knowledge and progress. In addition, pupils will participate in the regular art, music and PE lessons of their age group to be given the opportunity of applying their newly acquired knowledge and to establish contact with their German classmates.

The transition from participating in our bridge class to participating in regular teaching classes is very flexible and will be constantly adapted to each pupil’s individual situation. We optionally offer “full-time education” (lunch, supervision of homework, afternoon activities).

Fees

- € 40/month for the bridge class
- € 100/month additionally for “full-time education”

Our aims

This class allows young people to reduce language barriers rapidly, thus helping them integrate into their social context as well as into the Bavarian school system. On completing this class pupils will be given very intensive and highly personalized guidance so as to enable them to find a nearby school that answers best to their talents and inclinations (secondary schools, commercial schools, grammar schools).

Our partners

Our bridge class is an innovative pilot project created by the Town and the District of Landshut, the Seligenthal Schools Foundation and the education authorities of the Free State of Bavaria.
